"Our Bret Sunday under United States dom-ination," is the title of an article in the Delta, which gives a general view of affairs. The following is one-passage:

"History has no similar instance of so united and unanimous a population as that of New Ories us in the uncessed summercer. It is and State. They are of one will, one feeling, one determination on this point. They offer no resistance to Gen. Buller's military authority, but they say calmly, resolutely and carmasty, it's not of their will, desire or consent, but by their coercion and subjugation that they so submit."

A gradual change seems to have come over the spirit of the New Orieans Journalists. From day to day the leading articles grow milder, and "United States domination" is regarded in the latest papers we have received as a thing which is not so very terrible after all. For instance, the Delia says:

"The city authorities having pledged themselves in behalf of our citizens for the safety of the Officers and soldiers for the united States army when moving through our streets, and that our recopie would retrain from molecting or insulting them, General Butler has also signified the intention to remove his men with the exception of a guard, to the environs

MENDOZA, ILL, May SI.—A severe hall storm, accompanied with a strong north-enst wind and thunder, visited this viennity about five o'clock yesterday afternoon, doing great damage to windows, abrubbery, fiswer gardens and fruit. Many of the most solid hallstones were fully three inches in diameter.
It is impossible to estimate at present the amount of damage by these key projectiles, but it is known to be very heavy. One hundred lights of glass were broken in the fillnoil Central Railroad passenger bouse alone, and forty-seven in the front of the post-office building. Other unprotected building, other fruit trees and shrubbery were stripped of leaves and otherwise damaged, and gardens almost destroyed. Hall fell thickly for about half an hour, giving to the streets and sidewalks the appearance of a snow storm.

The Shortest Bond to the End.
Sr. Lours, May 30.—Brig. Gen. Schofield, Sommanding the Missouri State militia, has issued a general order, stating that hereafter all geerfiles and marsuders in this State, when caught in arms, engaged in their uniavial warfare, will be shot down on the spot, and all citizens who give shelter or protection to these outlaws, or who fall to give all assistance in their power to the military authorities in detecting and bringing them to punishment, will be regarded and treated as alders and abettors of the criminals.

At this stage of the storm the scene was in-discribable. The cattle came running through the streets by hundreds, bellowing and tear-ing around, giving evidence of being perfectly crary and bewildered.

The city was full of teams, and many broke The city was full of teams, and many broke loose and went rushing through the streets. The people rushed out and cut horses from the wagons, and is a few moments every store was filled with trembling horses, who were not only frightened nearly to death, but many were injured from the hall. The wind blew a perfect hurricane, and signs, boxes, lumber, and every conceivable thing that was not securely fastened, became movable property, and the air was filled with the fragn inveigled into a refreshment sale soon, after eating, he was thrown i spasms. not securely fastened, became movable property, and the air was filled with the fragments. The south side of the freight depot of the Galera road was taken off, and dashed into a million pleets. The water was two feet deep all over the depot grounds. The ravines became rivers, and the whole country was a lake of water. Every garden in the city is completely destroyed, and the shade trees nearly rained. Hardly a whole light of glass is left on the east side of a house in town. The crops in the country must be vary body damaged, if not by hall, by water—for the oldest inhibitiants say they never knew so much water falling in the same length of time. The storm lasted in all its fury fully two hoars, and the hall stones could be gathered up by the wagon-load hours after the storm.

The destruction of property in this city alone is large, and this morning, handreds are crowding the glass stores, for the whorewith to fix up their windows. GEN. SIGEL IN WASHINGTON. Splendid Reception by American ignated.

At the designated bour the square at the corner of Seventh street and Pennsylvania avenue swarmed with German and American citizens, who formed and macrobed in procession, under the escort of a flue band, to the Willard house. The procession, when the head reached the hotel, extended in a solid mass nearly to the Kirkwood house, and soon almost the entire area of Fourteenth sirect, between Pennsylvania avenue and F street was packed with a deuse mass of buman beings, crying voctlerously, as soon as man beings, crying voctleronaly, as soon as in handsome style by J. R. French, Esq., of the committee.

Gen. Sigol said he had not come to gratify his own curiosity, but from a sense of duty, at the direction of the President, and to see what he would have him do; otherwise he should do injustice to the gallant soldiers of the West, who had fought at Fort Henry, Fort Donelson, Wilson's Creek, and Pea Ridge. It was no time to gratify a personal vanity; he only wished to see if he could be of any service further in the glorious canse in which his sword was unshoathed; and he brought with him a hearty greeting from the army of the West. There was no difference between the army of the West and the army of the same glorious Union. In the isolation of the Western prairies he had thought that the army would not forget the brave men struggling there; and he had soldiers of the same glorious Union. In the isolation of the Western prairies he had thought that the army would not forgot the brave men struggling there; and he had found that the American soldiers wanted to fight. He believed that a bad rottest was better than a good stand still. There should be no rest till the country is safe, and every city in the Bouth should be a centre of liberty, with set rights of free speech and free assemblage in the fulless exercise. Where such rights are exercised there can be no tyranny. In thanking the endience for their kindness, he would not regard this compliment as personal to him, so much as a manifestation of sympathy with the army that has fought so bravely upon the bloody fields of the West. His remarks were received with frequent cheering, and were closed and thunders of appliance.

Brief and elequent speechet were also made by Carl Schurz, Owen Lorejoy, E. B. Weshburne, and Z. Gritzner, after which the crowd dispersed. WELL DONE FOR THE ZOUAVES.—The Ells worth Zouaves, under the charge of Capt. E. L. Brand, have one full company for the three months' service sworn in, and two other companies nearly full. The Rebel Steamer Planter-Excuse of Her Officers for their Negligence.

From the Charleston Courier, May 14, 1

Our community was intensely aritised Tuesday morning by the intelligence that the steamer Planter, for the last twelve months or more employed both in State and Confederate service. had been taken possession of by her colored crew, steamed up and boldly run out to the blockaders. The news at first was not credited; and it was not until by the aid of plantes she was discovered lying between two Federal rightsets, that all douts on the subject was dispelied. A great variety of runors and surnises were circulated in reference to the parties concerned and the number of the furtilities on board the steamer. The most authentic particulars that we could gather are as follows: THE ANNA BISHOP CONCERT.—Our reader will not forget the concert of Madame Anna Bishop this evening, positively her only one county; that on the 10th day of July, 1868, he went to California, gold hunting, where he remained until October, 1861, at which time he he returned to Jefferson. At that time he had a very slight acquaintance with the defendant, Miss Eliza Lotyhouse, One day he was visiting the defendant's relatives, when they proposed that it would be an excellent idea to marry the defendant. Gill saw it in that light, and offered himself to Eliza in the presence of her relatives. She said she knew of no impediment to the marriage, and the ceremony was celebrated on November 16th, 1861, and the day after, they removed to Chicago. Upon the morning of January 20th, 1862, Mrs. Gill surprised the unsuspecting Gill by presenting him a fine, full-grown female helr. Forthermore, he states that pronincipaling as to the paternity of the offspring, she acknowledged that her own nephew was the father of the child. The compialment alleges fraud in the inception of the contract, the state and academ the marriage. Water was immediately applied and other means to restore them, the former laying some five misutes before any signs of returning life were visible, while the latter soon recovered, and this morning both are doing well, and though thoroughly impressed with a realizing sense of the quick effect of electricity, think it not pleasant to take, but it in quantities ever so small:

She presumes he made a visit to her relatives, and that she mot him once. She admits the proposal of marhim once. She admits the proposal of mar-riage, and says that she at first refused him; that she alleged a disparity of age, and that she didn't love him. Plaintiff insisted that time and association would engender affection and, in fact, he wouldn't take no for an answer. She stated to him her misfortune, but did no say the parent of the child was her naphew. She advised him to hunt up some other per-son free from encumbrance. But still he persisted in marrying her, and she fisally assen-ed. She alleged she had been true to her hus-band, but admitted the birth of the child. That after the birth, he treated her very cruelly, threw sticks and stones against the olly, threw sticks and stones against the house, and, upoto one occasion, threw chunks of ice through the window. Therefore, she resists the petition and denice that the mar-riage is void by fraud.

The case is still pending—Mr. Martin for came in solid sheets, small at first, but be-come larger until they got to be the size of hens' eggs, and any quantity could be found The Cleansing of the Biver.

We are informed by Mr. Gutherie, Superintendent of the Pumping Works at Bridgeport, that the pumps were not run on Friday night, as a dispatch was received from the Superintendent of the canal at Lockport, stating that the canal could not receive the water as fast the canal could not receive the water as fast as thrown, and that it was fooding them. - As as inform, and it was a considered in the carried of the cannel is very sluggish, and can only take a certain amount. The pumps were set at work again on Saturday, and will continue working until news is received again from Lockport. Already the water from the mouth of the river to Lake street bridge is very pure, and from Lake street to Van Buren street bridge very much improved, by the operations of the pump during the first half day. If the canal can receive as fast as on wheel can throw, in one week's time the entire impure character of the river will be removed, and we shall have pure blue water, stion devoutly to be wished.

The negro four years and a half ago ran away from naster, was recaptured and ever since has worn this galling collar as a punishment. Some ped and came into the lines of the Hecker Regiment. The gal-lant fellows at once expressed their love of liberty and hatred of human slavery by saw-more solid than ever. We do not write this off the barbarous and torturing collar rom the slave's neck and employing him as a camster. When J. ESCAPE OF REDEL PRISONERS.—During the excitement and confusion incident upon the arrival of the rebel prisoners in this city from Camp Bandall, Madison, a number of them made their escape. One of them named Wm. McDonald, of the Washington Battery captured at Island No. 10, was arrested in Wright's Hotel, Friday night. Upon Saturday members, see the respect to the property of the saturday members, when the property of the saturday members, we have recommended to the saturday members. day morning, another member of the same battery named Charles Haight was discovered in Foster's anotion room on Dearborn street. It is stated that Mr. Foster and his clerk were both cognizant that Haight was a runaway rebel. In any event, the latter was sitting in the room perfectly at his case, chatting easily as if he were at perfect liberty, and no a traitor deserving of a ceil. He is now when he will not be in future quite so peripatetic.

DEATH FROM INTEMPRHANCE.—A man named Jacob George, residing on the corner of Feoria and Mouroe streets, left his home on Thureday evening in a fit of delirium tre-mens, nothing further having been heard of him until his body was found on Saturday nm untui his body was round on Saturay morning lying in the road near the farm of Mr. Sayers, in the town of Jefferson. An in-quest was hold, the verdict being that the de-cessed came to his death from cold and expos-ure while in a state of intoxication. He was obout 38 years of age, and leaves a family in this city.

THE CONNECTIOUT LIFE INSURANCE CON PANY.—In another column will be found the card of L. D. Olmsted & Co., setting forth card of L. D. Olmsted & Co., setting forth with convincing ügures and facts the advan tages of the Connecticut Life Insurance Com-pany, for which the above firm are agents. The abundant capital of this company, it thorough responsibility, and its rigid econo-my, assuring large dividends, at once indicate its claims upon the public.

FIRE PROOF.—R. G. Goodwillie & Co., were the principal sufferers by the fire on Thursday night, had all their hands promptly at work Friday morning, as it nothing had happened, at the corner of Ohlo and Franklin streets, ready to fill orders as usual, and gave the Mechanical Bakery two hundred army bread boxes by dinner time. No fire can affect such energy as this. Nothing short of an earthquake could do it. ENLANGED THEIR QUARTERS.—S. L. Under Camp Bouglas Matters.

The statement in our issue of Saturday that the Camp Randall prisoners who arrived is this city on Friday night proceeded to Camp Douglas was correct, but had we been in their informed in the matter we might have said they came back again. Such, indeed, was the case. The night being exceedingly dark and stormy, and the distance from the track to the Camp considerable, it was decaned unsafe to attempt to unload them; and as the Illinois Central track had to be cleared for other trains, they were run back to the Northwestern Depot, where they remained in the cars through they were run back to the Northwestern De-pot, where they remained in the cars through the night, and were marched to the Camp about 11 o'clock Saturday moraing. During Friday night some half-dozen of them man-aged to clude the vigilance of the guard and escape. Two of them, however, were after-wards recaptured by officer Jennings and tak-ten to camp.

A New Battion.

Later in the day, Col. Cameron was also made the recipient of a like present by the officers of his, the Scotch regiment. As in the former case, the presentation was made by the Chaplain, Rev. Dr. Rowe, in presence of the whole regiment, Col. Cameron neatly reasonding.

or the whole regiment, our canada many responding.

Dr. Benjamin, Medical Purvayor in the Con-federate army, left Camp Douglas on Satur-day, to be exchanged for Lieut. Col. Quinn Mor-ton, of the 234 Missouri regiment, who was captured at Pea Ridge. Lieut. Col. Morton was formerly Adjutant in the Irish Brigade, during their campaign in Missouri. The whole number of deaths at Camp Douglas since the first arrival of prisoners up to June 1st, is 491; of this number about ninety were Federal soldiers, leaving some 400 deaths among the prisoners. The Irish Brigade were made happy on Saturday by receiving two month's pay. The Scotch regiment has not yet been paid.

Mesers, Pollard & Boane.

The growth of the wholesale business of this city is best shown by the present standing and magnitude of our leading firms.

Mesers, Pollard & Doane succeed the old established house of Smith, Pollard & Co., to tablished house of Smith, Foliard & Co., for upwards of twelve years prominently associated with the wholesale grocery trade of Chicago, and the recent change finds the new house in occupancy of one of the most extensive premises in the city, the double atore Nos. 189 and 191 South Water street, and yet none too, large for their herecasting business. none too large for their increasing business The length of time they have held their place in the business community here has given them an excellent name throughout the region of which Chicago is the coof which chicago is the commercias cearce, and deservedly too, for few houses west of New York can offer equal inducements to the trade. Their stock comprises everything per-taining to their department of trade, of which they offer this season a larger and more desir-able assortment than ever before, with advantages for its display and convenience of han the trying times since 1856, and that is, "Buy light, for cash, and buy often," and in so do at rates competing in every respect with East-ern bouses.
